Blocbox's dashboard consists of user-generated content: Notes, Images, and Links. Let's create a way for registered users to add these content items individually. Each item has different requirements, however, the interaction of adding content should be similar.
We'll focus on each content item type, and what's necessary to complete to upload the content to Blocbox.
Create text note
For Blocbox, users want to store simple text-based notes. Using a modal window, users can input a headline and body text to create notes.
Let's include a few actions for users, such as favoriting, sharing, deleting, adding to a box, and adding tags for each content item. These actions will appear on each modal.
For inputting text, let's use an inline edit style. It reduces the amount of input boxes on the page, and helps create a clean solution to content editing, much like Medium.
